

The Cultural Heritage At Risk Database

Guidance on registrations

What is CHARD?

- The Cultural Heritage At Risk Database (CHARD) is a non-profit NGO based between the Netherlands and the UK
- It was initiated as a pro-bono project in 2015 of the Art Loss Register (ALR). Founded in 1990, the ALR is the central due diligence database for the international art market, carrying out 450,000 checks each year
- Alongside the registration of lost and stolen objects, CHARD specifically supports the prevention of illicit trafficking and sale of cultural property, primarily in the event of conflict and natural disaster, and to protect objects that remain in situ but at significant risk

What is CHARD?

- CHARD works directly with governments and law enforcement, as well as non governmental organisations, heritage agencies, archaeologists, archivists and individuals to register 'at risk' objects.
- The ALR database provides the database infrastructure for CHARD, since it is the well established due diligence mechanism for checks on the international art market
- No third party has access to CHARD or the ALR database to be able to view registered objects, so traffickers cannot first check whether an object is registered and avoid detection in an attempted transfer or sale elsewhere
- If a registered item is identified in the ALR's 450,000 annual checks of public and private sales, local and international law enforcement will be informed

What can be registered on CHARD?

Types of case:

- Stolen or missing items from archaeological sites, museums, warehouses, storage etc. that are the cultural property of a museum or nation state
- Collections in museums, sites, libraries, archives, depositories or storage where they may be 'at risk' of looting

What data is needed to register an item?

- Image
- Description of the object ('culture'/material/dimensions/markings)
- Ideally:
 - Details of its original site, excavation, depository, museum etc..
 - Details of its loss (date, location, relevant reference numbers)
 - Any documentation, publication etc.
- To be sent to CHARD in whatever format easiest for you – ideally the template spreadsheet, or in some other form
- CHARD understands that much of this data may not be available for every item

What data is needed to register an item?

- Describing the objects:
 - How might it be described on the market, as well as in a museum?
 - Additional (vs. exclusive) keywords, e.g. an object might be Roman and Hellenistic; sword and dagger
- Ideally objects in the same collection (e.g. an inventory of a specific site) or the same loss sent through together
- Green categories are vital, yellow are very helpful but not mandatory

Image	Item title / Description	Artist / Maker / Culture	Date	Medium / Material	Dimensions	Additional Information on the item (e.g. inscriptions, inventory numbers, markings etc.)	Additional information on original site and deposit, provenance, exhibitions, publications etc.

What data is needed to register an item?

- Gives best chance for CHARD and the ALR to find on the market and take action:

Image	Item title / Description	Artist / Maker / Culture	Date	Medium / Material	Dimensions	Additional Information on the item (e.g. inscriptions, inventory numbers, markings etc.)	Known original site and deposit, provenance, exhibitions, publications etc.

What data is needed to register an item?

- ...but this could be enough:

Image	Item title / Description	Artist / Maker / Culture	Date	Medium / Material	Dimensions	Additional Information on the item (e.g. inscriptions, inventory numbers, markings etc.)	Known original site and deposit, provenance, exhibitions, publications etc.
	Torso	Roman		Marble	c. 50 cm	E1848	- Rolf Stucky 1993 "Die Skulpturen aus dem Eschmun-Heiligtum bei Sidon"
	Relief of bulls and figures			Stone	c. 15 cm long

What data is needed to register an item?

- CHARD understands that much of this data may not be available for every item
- CHARD is very happy to review what images and details of objects are available – and in what format (e.g. spreadsheet or catalogue) – and can then advise if further information might be required to complete the registration process.
- If anyone is concerned for their own safety as a result of providing information to CHARD for registration, then they should let CHARD know and items can be added anonymously.

Strengthening registrations

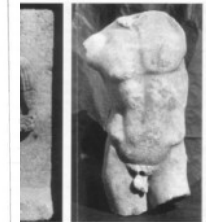

- Any further details such as inventories, publications, photographs and so on that may be available to show the object with a museum, site or depository should be held onto as this could be important evidence to demonstrate the rightful ownership in future.
- Through CHARD, the ALR is able to hold electronic copies of these to ensure that they are not lost in the passage of time or other reasons, and so that they are immediately available when a stolen item appears on the market.

Statuette d'un bel athlète nu, debout en marbre blanc. La tête manquante, les bras ne subsistent que l'attache au bras droit qui devrait être affaiblement levé. Bras au haut des cuisses. Pectoraux et muscles abdominaux saillants. Sexe bien marqué; comme sur toutes les autres statues d'athlètes. Corde circulaire de la hanche ou devant le sillon, le couplé.
L'ados est nu par la taille et le corps n'est sur une plaque à la surface marquée de légères reliefs en sautoir. Est-ce un vêtement? ce n'est que peu probable.
haut cors = 0.50

Use of data provided to CHARD

- Any information provided to CHARD will be used solely for the purpose of locating these objects if they are offered on the market and then informing the relevant authorities
- Only CHARD and ALR staff have access to the database itself and thus only they can see the items that have been registered upon it
- CHARD and the ALR recognises the enormous amount of work that academics and institutions put into creating databases, inventories and research and will not publish the information provided to it more widely
- The information provided will remain confidential to CHARD and the ALR unless and until it needs to be provided to law enforcement or others in the event an item is located.
